Total Credits: _____ Total Tags _____

*The above 9 electives must include the study of religion in terms of religious traditions, regions, and themes.

TRADITION REQUIREMENT: at least 2 courses in the same religious tradition; and at least 1 course in a different tradition. Examples: Buddhism, Judaism; including studies of a tradition’s scriptures (e.g. Qur’an, New Testament). ABOVE, INDICATE 2 COURSES WITH THE SAME TRADITION AND ONE OTHER (e.g. Tradition-Buddhism, Tradition-Buddhism, and Tradition-Islam). List as TB=Tradition-Buddhism, TCH=Tradition-Christianity, TCO=Tradition-Confucianism, TH= Tradition-Hinduism, TI=Tradition-Islam, TJA= Tradition-Jainism, TJU= Tradition-Judaism, TO=Tradition-Other

REGION REQUIREMENT: at least 2 courses that examine religion in a particular geographical area, which might also include cultures in diaspora. Examples: America, East Asia, African diaspora. LIST 2 COURSES AS “REGION.” List as R=Region

THEME REQUIREMENT: at least 2 thematic courses. “Themes” may refer to approaches, topics, methods, perspectives. Examples: Death and Dying, Introduction to Religion, Religion and Healing, Human Goodness, and many special topics. LIST 2 COURSES AS “THEME.” List as T=Theme

Counting classes: The principle of “double-dipping” (but not “triple-dipping”) is allowed—for example REL 307, “East Asian Buddhism,” could count under both “traditions” and “regions.” REL 318, “Islamic Law” could count under both “traditions” and “themes.” Consultation with the DUS or your advisor is recommended.

Students may petition the DUS to count up to two courses (including language courses beyond the College’s minimum requirement) towards the electives, even if the courses are not listed as REL, if the content of the courses is clearly relevant to the student’s program in the study of religion.
